Author's acknowledgement

Many thanks to Sue O'Connell for keeping the book 'focused' and staying positive: and to Roberta for putting up with it all.

I would also like to thank the students and staff of St Clare's, Oxford for their help in piloting the material and for their support.

The publishers are grateful to the following for permission to reproduce copyright material:
Philip Allan Publishers Ltd for an adapted extract from 'Special Agents' by Andrew Jones in SOCIOLOGY REVIEW vol. 7 No 1, September 1977 and an extract from 'Thinking about family life' by David Morgan in SOCIOLOGY REVIEW vol. 7 No 4, 1998; British Airways for an extract from an article by David Hewson in BRITISH AIRWAYS BUSINESS LIFE July/August 1998; BBC WILDLIFE MAGAZINE on behalf of the authors, for extracts from 'Mystery of the dying frogs' by Tim Halliday & 'Small is beautiful' by Jonathan Porritt in BBC WILDLIFE MAGAZINE October 1997 p29 & pp21–22; Brockman Inc. on behalf of the author, for an extract from THE RISE AND FALL OF THE THIRD CHIMPANZEE by Jared Diamond; Guardian Newspapers Ltd for a slightly adapted extract from 'Office Politics' by Guy Browning in THE GUARDIAN WEEKEND 6.6.98; Guild of Master Craftsmen Publications Ltd for an advertisement for a desk editor in THE INDEPENDENT 13.10.93; Penguin Books Ltd for an adapted extract from BETTER READER, FASTER READER by Manya and Eric De Leeuw (Pelican Original) Copyright © Manya and Eric De Leeuw, 1965.

We have been unable to trace the copyright holder of the letter 'Pick Strawberry Fields for the heritage beat' from Mr Gerald Murphy to THE INDEPENDENT and would appreciate any information which would enable us to do so.

STUDY TIP

Using a dictionary

► As an advanced learner, you will find a good monolingual dictionary an essential tool. Apart from spelling and meanings, a dictionary can tell you:

- part of speech
- pronunciation – if you can recognise phonetic script
- word stress – /rɪ'tʃɪn/ or /rɪtʃɪn/
- word formation
- collocations
- useful phrases the word is used in

I.2 Parts of speech

Decide the grammatical function of the word fast in each of the sentences below. Use your dictionary to check your answers.

- 1 If you take the fast train, you should be there in under an hour.
- 2 Many religions require their followers to fast at certain times of the year.
- 3 The car got stuck fast in the wet sand so we just left it there.
- 4 When it started raining, we all ran inside as fast as we could.
- 5 Some prisoners began a fast to protest against the appalling conditions.
- 6 By the time I got home, the children were already fast asleep.

I.3 Tenses

Complete the following sentences with the correct form of the verbs in brackets. Then fill in the name of the tense you have used. See the example.

- 1 Dan hates doing the washing-up. (hate – present simple)
- 2 Hi, Laura. Long time no see. How it ? (go –)
- 3 Sorry to keep you. How long you ? (wait –)
- 4 I sincerely hope they the building work by the end of next month. (finish –)
- 5 What you between 5 and 6pm last Saturday? (do –)
- 6 Good news everybody! We to build a new gymnasium with the new government grant. (can –)
- 7 Julia ever seriously ill before her trip to India last year? (be –)
- 8 Just think, this time next month I here for ten years! (work –)
- 9 Does anyone want a sandwich? No thanks, I just lunch. (have –)
- 10 Where on earth you those shoes? They're awful! (buy –)
- 11 I hope I on a sun-drenched beach in Italy this time tomorrow. (sit –)
- 12 We through the forest for two or three hours when we realised we were lost! (walk –)

I.4 Dependent prepositions

Complete the following sentences by putting the correct preposition in the space provided. The first one has been done for you.

- 1 Moral and social responsibility should be integrated into every child's schooling.
- 2 It's impossible to attend a task properly if you're worrying something else.
- 3 Kelly has great confidence her children's abilities.
- 4 It's a good idea to make notes what you're reading if you want to remember it.
- 5 Unfortunately, many university courses do not provide students the basic study skills they really need.

- 6 Jack took early retirement as he was losing his grip the job.
- 7 Apparently, an interest in reading in later life is closely related how much your parents read to you as a child.
- 8 Ron usually primes himself plenty of black coffee before starting the night shift.
- 9 I find it very hard to commit historical dates memory.
- 10 Lack of sleep can seriously interfere your ability to think rationally.

2 Grammar

2.1 Conditionals 0, 1 and 2 ► Focus on Grammar, SB page 14

Complete the following conditional sentences with suitable phrases. Look at the example given.

- 1 OK, OK, I'll lend you the money as long as you pay me back next week.
- 2 What would you do if your car miles from anywhere?
- 3 If you woollen clothes in hot water, they shrink.
- 4 Quite frankly, I think you're going to fail the exam unless harder.

- 18 We should be able to play tennis on Friday afternoon unless , of course.
- 19 Should in the neighbourhood, feel free to call in.
- 20 I'd play a lot more sport if I so much work to do.

STUDY TIP

Conditionals

► Although you cannot use 'll after if in most conditional sentences, there is one time when you can. This is to express willingness or volition:
e.g. If you'll clear the table, I'll wash the dishes.

2.2 despite/in spite of; although/but ► Study Box, SB page 17

Match the first half of the sentences in Column A with their endings in Column B then add an appropriate linking word or phrase. The first one has been done for you.

- | | |
|--|-------------------------------------|
| 1 Joan is very hard-working | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> |
| 2 Lucy lived in Mexico for three years, | <input type="checkbox"/> |

| I he wanted to learn to write plays. |
| J there is no quick and easy way to learn a language. |

3 Phrasal verbs

3.1 Word order

In some, but not all, of the sentences below the word order of the phrasal verbs and objects is wrong. Make any corrections that you think are necessary. See the example given.

- 1 If there are any words you don't understand, look up(them)in your dictionaries.
- 2 Quick, I haven't got a pen. Can you jot Jack's phone number down for me?
- 3 You don't have to give me an answer right away. Think over it and let me know tomorrow.
- 4 'Are you going to the party next Friday?'
'Yes, I'm really looking forward to it.'
- 5 Could you look this article through and tell me what you think of it?
- 6 'I don't think we'll be able to play the match in all this rain.'
'No, let's put off it until tomorrow.'

Dear friend,

it was very nice to (1) after such a long time. (2) to hear that you've settled down in your new job in Valencia and are getting into the local way of life!

As you know, I'm still working at the same language school as before although now I'm in charge of marketing our courses in Europe! So it's a lot more responsibility and lots of travelling. As it happens, I'm coming to Valencia next month and (3)

..... favour! I desperately need the names, addresses and phone numbers of the directors of all the local English language schools and I can't seem to get that sort of information in this country.

(4) if you could go through all the local yellow pages and send me information. Please don't

(5) if you can't manage it, I can always do it when I get there.

(6) , we must definitely meet up when I'm over. (7) see you soon.

Looking forward to hearing from you. Yours sincerely,

Andy

Mapping the mind's word processor

An area is deep in the left frontal half of the brain used to process language has been pinpointed by a new brain-imager. Dr Julie Fiez, who first reported the work, believes brain-imagers will one day help to show that the causes of problems like dyslexia and determine strategies to overcome language in difficulties. The new imaging technique shows that the parts of the brain which are working harder' because of blood flow has increased. When some people being studied were asked to lift their left index finger when they have heard a specific tone, word, syllable or vowel. Others were asked only to listen without doing anything. The brain's left frontal region was seen to be used only when subjects had to show they had heard of the specific sound, rather than just listened. Many regions are involved in listening but this one appears to be involved when parts of a sound have to be analysed to make up a decision, for instance how to correctly pronounce the words 'lead' and 'tears' in the different contexts.

I must urge you to ...

10 North Parade
Loxley

Dear Mr Clough

I'm writing to say just how fed up I am with the state of the road outside my house. It's a real mess! Just the other day old Mrs Bicknell, the woman who lives next door, got the back wheel of her Mini stuck in one of the huge great pot-holes outside my gate. The poor old thing was really upset and we had to get two chaps from the garage to pull her car out!

Now why have we got these pot-holes in the road? Well, because of that terrible weather we had with all that ice and snow. But that was two months ago now, and I know you know about the situation because we saw a chap from the council inspecting the road just after the weather got better.

So, why haven't you done anything about it? I think you'd better send a road repair team round here as soon as possible. Not only that, I think it would be a good idea for you to be better prepared in the future so you can get things sorted out a bit more quickly!

Hoping to hear from you very soon about this problem.

Fred Smith

7 Grammar

7.1 Review of passives and causative (have/get something done) ► Focus on Grammar SB, page 30

STUDY TIP

Causative have/get

- Have/get something done (Causative) is used to mean:
- cause something to be done by someone else
e.g. I had/got my hair cut yesterday. (The hairdresser did it.)
 - cause something to happen yourself
e.g. I'll have/get this mess cleared up in no time.
 - experience something (usually undesirable)
e.g. Clara had/got her credit cards stolen the other day.
Get is used rather than have:
 - to show a feeling of obligation or urgency
e.g. I must get my car insurance renewed – it ran out last week!
 - to show that something was difficult to do/achieve e.g. We finally got the decorating finished just before we moved in.
 - to indicate a planned action to achieve something
e.g. He got himself elected President of the club.
 - in imperatives
e.g. Get this room cleaned up at once!

STUDY TIP

Doubling consonants

► Remember that in verbs of more than one syllable the final consonant is (usually) doubled only if the stress is on the syllable before it:

e.g. ^oreferred but ^offered ^oforgetting but ^oremembering

In the following sentences, decide which of the underlined forms is correct/more probable or if both are possible. See the example given.

- 1 Our house is being/getting renovated so we're staying with friends at the moment.

I Vocabulary – Register and style

Language Focus, SB page 36

1.1 Good monolingual dictionaries always indicate if a word or phrase has a particular ‘register’, in other words the type of context it should be used in. Different dictionaries use slightly different labels to indicate register but they all tell you whether the word or phrase is informal, formal, specialised/technical (e.g. medical, legal, literary, etc), old-fashioned/dated, slang, etc. Words and phrases with no label are of neutral register.

Use your monolingual dictionary to determine the register of the following words and to discover a more common/neutral (near) synonym. An example is given.

Word	Register	Synonym
1 lesion	medical	cut, wound
2 podgy
3 bananas (adj)
4 pen (v)
5 wireless (n)
6 larceny
7 pretty (adv)
8 court (v)
9 notwithstanding
10 nosh-up
11 politic
12 bamboozle
13 clavicle
14 lingo

1.2 Make any necessary changes to the underlined words in the sentences that follow. Not all the underlined words are in inappropriate register. The first one has been done for you.

- Unfortunately, he ended his days in an institution for the criminally ~~bananas~~ insane.
- Oh no! I think I've put my clavicle out again.
- Lingo study classes are from 0900 to 1215 with options in the afternoon.
- You are invited to a nosh-up to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the foundation of the club.
- It's no good trying to bamboozle me. I'm not going to buy any insurance.

- She turned out to be a great boss to work for notwithstanding what everybody said about her.
- It is, to say the very least, pretty regrettable that the Managing Director has decided to resign at this crucial time.
- Podgy children run a higher risk of heart disease in later life.
- My grandmother never bought a TV. She was quite happy listening to her wireless, as she used to call it.
- Can you pen a quick shopping list for me? You know how forgetful I am.
- One feels it may not be politic at this moment to press for an increase in salary.
- 'Hi, Karen. So this is your new boyfriend.'
'Yeah, we've been courting for about two months now.'
- I'm a bit worried about Harry, doctor. He's got some nasty lesions on his legs.
- 'I see Fred Gomm's been arrested again.'
'Oh, what for this time?'
'The usual – larceny.'

Progress Test One

Units 1–4

I Structural cloze

Complete the following newspaper article by writing one word in each of the numbered gaps.

Shining example or white elephant?

The new university hospital in Trenton, (1) the Health Minister Victoria Culley has described (2) a 'shining example' to hospitals all (3) the country, has been open now for over six months. (4) heard several less than complimentary comments about the organisation and efficiency of the place, I decided to see for myself. Before (5) there, I had arranged with my local GP to have some routine blood tests for anaemia.

In (6) of arriving early (7.15 a.m.!) I found that there were already long queues at the reception desks. (7) I was waiting, I looked around and have to admit that it is an impressive building; large and light with marble everywhere. Eventually my turn came and I presented my doctor's letters to the receptionist, (8) informed me that I was in the X-ray queue and I'd have to go to another queue and start again! I couldn't believe it and asked her if it (9) be possible to give me an appointment card anyway (10) making me queue up again. She informed me it was no (11) arguing with her and I should have read the sign, an almost invisible piece of card saying 'X-rays' just in front of her (12) very few people can have seen it. No (13) how hard I tried to persuade her, she wouldn't give me an appointment card for a blood test, so I started (14) again and finally got the card at 8.30! I then set off for the blood tests room, following the nice new signs (15) they suddenly stopped and I realised that I was in a part of the hospital that hasn't been finished yet! When I got to the door I saw a notice saying 'Back in 10 minutes'. I sat down and waited for 30 minutes before a doctor appeared and told me to come in without, of course, (16) for keeping me waiting. I asked him why I'd had to wait and he explained he'd had to help out in another ward which was (17) as a (18) of a flu epidemic among the doctors!

I got out of the hospital at 9.45 a.m. and breathed a sigh of relief. I'm now waiting for the results.

So, Mrs Culley, a far from rosy picture. Certainly the public should be (19) no illusions that things have changed for the better. Perhaps you should visit the hospital as an anonymous out-patient rather than a government minister if you really want to know what it's like, (20) , as I suspect, you don't actually care that much!

2 Phrasal verbs

Complete each of the following sentences with the appropriate form of a suitable phrasal verb. An example is provided.

Example: Dennis has given up his job so he can stay at home and look after the children.

- 1 Overeating and lack of exercise can serious health problems in later life.
- 2 Hi Brenda, Peter here. I'm just to say I've got two tickets for the concert on Saturday night. Fancy coming?
- 3 You should the pros and cons carefully before buying a second-hand car.
- 4 Now, don't us We're counting on you to cook something really special for the party this Saturday.
- 5 The group the concert with their greatest hits. So everyone went home happy.

3 Error correction

In most of the lines of the following text, there is one unnecessary word. It is either grammatically incorrect or does not fit in with the sense of the text. For each numbered line 1–16, find this word and write it in the space to the right of the text. Some lines are correct. Indicate these lines with a tick (✓) in the space. The exercise begins with two examples (0).

Hibernation syndrome

I don't know about you, but come to the winter months, my body seems to require more sleep than in summer and I'm definitely at my happiest when I'm being curled up in a hedgehog-style ball. 'Wanting to sleep more in winter is not natural and nothing to worry about, unless you are sleeping for more than 12 hours a day,' says sleep expert Dr James B. Maas. The reason for we feel drowsy has as much to do with our biochemistry as it does so with wanting to snuggle up like a couch potato indoors. 'It's all to do with melatonin,' explains Dr Maas, 'a hormone with which is secreted by the brain's pineal gland in response to darkness.' They may feel more sleepy, but as many people find getting to sleep in winter is a problem. It's hardly surprising. When lounging around indoors drinking mugs of warming up coffee and snacking on chocolate bars doesn't always prepare you for a good night's rest. If you do have trouble nodding off, Deepak Chopra has this tip: 'Try a soothing mix of the sweet and sour essential oils, such as orange, geranium and clove are mixed with almond oil and rubbed it on to your forehead just before bedtime.'

4 Word formation

Read the texts below. Use the words in the box to form one word that fits in the numbered space in the texts. The exercise begins with an example.

All at sea

Just after sunrise, Jack looked out of the porthole again. If anything, the sea was looking even (0) choppier... than it had been the night before. The wind had (1) and was now accompanied by (2) rain. Jack's heart sank. He felt (3) after yet another (4) night spent tying things down and praying the yacht wouldn't sink under the relentless battering of the wind and the waves. With the radio broken, he had no chance of signalling for help and all he had for company was mile upon (5) mile of mountainous seas between him and the (6) of port. He realised he was in a (7) situation.

- 0 CHOPPY
- 1 INTENSE
- 2 TORRENT
- 3 DREAD
- 4 SLEEP
- 5 END
- 6 SAFE
- 7 DESPAIR

Homeopathy

Our army of (8) and underpaid family doctors are daily disheartened to see the same people returning with the same problems. They know only too well that thousands of people suffer from (9) for which conventional treatment proves (10) , no matter how many expensive or painful tests they are forced to (11) However, all is not lost. Alternative medicine and, (12) , homeopathy is gaining (13) as a valid form of treatment even though it remains hard to prove (14) just how it works! Sceptics regard it as a fairly (15) form of hocus-pocus with active ingredients so diluted they wouldn't hurt a fly. But with so many devotees, it seems hard to ignore its potential any longer.

- 8 WORK
- 9 AIL
- 10 EFFECT
- 11 GO
- 12 PARTICULAR
- 13 RECOGNISE
- 14 SCIENCE
- 15 HARM

5 Discourse cloze

For questions 1–6, read through the following text and then choose from the list A–J the best phrase or sentence to fill each of the spaces. Write one letter (A–J) in the correct space. Some of the answers do not fit at all. The exercise begins with an example (0).

So how was your inbox this morning? Overflowing at the seams? Full of messages from people you don't know, subjects you don't care about, and (0) ... the odd gem of information which could transform your life (1) ?

Welcome to the club: e-mail is both business blessing and commercial curse. You can't do without it, yet you still can't face the idea of wading through every one of those tedious messages that come through the digital door every day. Perhaps (2) , then it's time to move on to the fun parts of the magazine because I have momentous news for you: the e-mail flood may be bad today, but tomorrow (3) Not only are you going to get more of the stuff, the stuff itself is going to explode too – into audio and graphics, video and customer response forms. And (4) , you're going to lose a key business edge along the way.

In the US, (5) for large corporations that deal with employees, customers and suppliers by e-mail to dispatch a staggering 800,000 messages per day (yes, you did read that correctly). Small wonder that one boss of a large software company decided to close down his network e-mail system for part of each day, (6) he thought people were too busy e-mailing and not spending enough time communicating.

2.2 Past perfect simple and continuous

In the following passage fill in the spaces with an appropriate form of the past perfect simple, past perfect continuous, past simple or past continuous of the verb in brackets. The first one has been done for you.

Frogs in my car

I (1) had been waiting (wait) for over an hour when Barry finally (2) (turn up) on the tractor. He (3) (explain) he (4) (hold up) by a fallen tree on the road. I (5) (not find) this hard to believe as a gale force wind (6) (blow) for the past 5 hours accompanied by torrential rain. The reason why I (7) (call) Barry was that my car (8) (lie) on its side in a ditch. I (9) (drive) along very slowly in the terrible weather when suddenly a large dog (10) (appear) in front of me. I (11) (brake) to avoid hitting it and the car (12) (skid) out of control on the water and mud on the road and into the ditch. I (13) (manage) to get out through the window. - 9 If you don't understand a word, try and guess what it means before you find its meaning/..... in a dictionary.
- 10 Can't we go a little faster/..... a bit or we'll never get there on time?

3.2 In other words

In the following story replace the words in brackets with an appropriate phrasal verb taken from the box below. See the example.

pull up	start up	go through with
look on to	pull off	rip off
build up	stub out	pull over
look out for	jump out of	pull out
drop off to	shoot off	take aback

The hold-up

The hold-up had started going wrong. Clyde, who was supposed to be (1) looking out for (waiting to see) the security van from a flat which (2) (gave a view of) the main street, had (3) (gone to) sleep due to the fact that he had been drinking double brandies all morning to (4) (increase) his courage.

So Buggy, Danny and Studs were completely (5) (amazed) when the security van (6) (stopped) outside the bank without a word of warning from Clyde. Buggy (7) (extinguished) his cigarette. 'We've gotta (8) it (not leave unfinished) now – it's too late to (9) (abandon a difficult plan)!'

Studs (10) (put in motion) the getaway car and (11) (moved) to a spot just past the bank. Buggy and Danny (12) (quickly left) the car and (13) (ran) towards the bank. Studs suddenly realised just how shaky he felt after the recent events and got out of the car for a breath of fresh air.

A few minutes later Buggy and Danny came running back from the bank shouting to the still dazed Studs that they had (14) it (succeeded in a difficult plan). Studs, however, didn't seem too interested and stood glued to the spot where he had left the car.

'Good God! Is nothing sacred these days? Some crook's just (15) the car (stolen)!'

3.3 Three-word phrasal verbs ► Study Box, SB page 72

- 9 Although they are from very different backgrounds, they get each other extremely well.
- 10 I'm sorry I haven't got fixing your window yet. I'll do it tomorrow.

STUDY TIP

Phrasal verbs

► A good way to record and remember phrasal verbs is to group them according to particle (up, down, in, out, on, off, etc) rather than verb (get, make, run, etc):

e.g.	turn		keep
	switch	ON	put
	keep		catch
			UP WITH

Remember that particles often have fixed meanings such as fastening and restriction, approach etc:
e.g. wrap up, zip up, tie up, make for, head for

Dear Mr ^{Jefferies} ~~Randolf~~ in
I was most interested ~~by~~ your advertisement on 'The Independent' and I am writing for obtain further informations about your country cottage holidays.

In particular, I would like knowing in which parts of the country your cottages are located as my friends and I are interested to stay as far away from large cities as possible. I would like to know too if it would be possible renting a cottage for six people for up to six months and whether pets are allowed as my friends and I have three well-behaved dogs we are planning to take with us.

I should, therefore, be terrible grateful if you will send me full details of your larger more isolated cottages and any brochures you may have.

Thanking you in advance for your help. I look forward to hear from you as early as possible.

Yours faithfully

7 Editing for phrasal verbs

In the following passage most (but not all) of the phrasal verbs have either the wrong verb or wrong particle. If a correction is required, write it in the space provided. Look at the example (0).

Although £10 seemed a lot for a guided walking tour, I'd charged up like most of the others staying at the hotel. The tour was supposed to start at 9 o'clock, so we were getting a little angry and were just about to give in and go and have a cup of coffee together when the guide finally turned out at reception 30 minutes late. She said she had left home on time but had had to go back as she'd forgotten the tour maps – it came out to be her first day on the job! First of all, she sorted off which of us already had maps and which didn't. We eventually set off more than an hour behind schedule and started making to the old town. Although there were only about ten of us, I found it hard to hear her commentary as she seemed to have singled out the three or four people closest to her to talk to. As we were walking along I asked her if we could go and see a beautiful old church, but she replied rather abruptly that we had to stick in the itinerary. After that, I decided I'd better write down my £10 and rely on my own map and intelligence for a more personal tour of the city.

STUDY TIP

even if vs even though

► Remember that even if is used before statements that are hypothetical i.e. not fact:
e.g. Even if I had all the money in the world, I wouldn't buy that car.
We wouldn't have caught the plane even if we'd taken a taxi.

► Even though, on the other hand, is used before statements that are fact:
e.g. She's not happy with her job even though she's just had a pay rise and promotion.
He went to the cinema with his friends even though he'd already seen the film.

6 Spelling

6.2 Here is a quick checklist of the main areas of difficulty:

- silent letter combinations – know, comb, wrong, castle, etc.
- doubling consonants to maintain correct pronunciation – taped (past of tape) vs tapped (past of tap), cuter (from cute) vs cutter (from cut), etc.
- doubling consonant on stressed final syllable before a suffix:

o o	o o o	o o	o o o
differ	differing	defer	deferring
o o o	o o o o	o o	o o o
benefit	benefited	admit	admitted
- doubling final 'l' after no more than one vowel – travel > travelled, control > controller, vs reveal > revealed
- dropping final 'e' before suffixes starting with a vowel – write > writing (but age > aging or ageing), create > creating, collapse > collapsible, collaborate > collaboration
- final 'y' changes to 'i' only if preceded by a consonant and followed by a suffix not beginning with 'i' – try > tried vs trying
- negative prefixes before specific letters – im + p (impolite), il + l (illogical), ir + r (irresponsible)
- differences between GB and US English – colour vs color, traveller vs traveler
- individual oddities!

6.2 Now check the following sentences. Correct any spelling mistakes you find.

- 1 They stoped the car to ask the way.
- 2 The police are patrolling this area more and more.
- 3 We are studing the fall of the Roman Empire at the moment.
- 4 It is debateable whether the death penalty is an effective deterrent.

- 8 The way Luisa can switch between three languages is very impressive.
- 9 Most people found the documentary deeply shocking.
- 10 I'll never forget that tremendously delicious meal we had on the last day of our holiday.

8 Review writing

For questions 1–15 read the film review below and then decide which word best fits in each space. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Having seen the (0) ...trailer... on TV for this latest Sam Spadacci film, I knew I was in for something a little different! The main (1) of the film (2) with the fall and eventual rise of Frankie Longo, (3) by the new Hollywood superstar Larry Zardini. The (4), which has some brilliant one-liners, was written by Spadacci's old associate, Matt Dusi.

Everything starts off fairly predictably – a young Italo-American kid, mixed up with the local Mafia – it seems to be the usual (5) of Spadacci's own roots. But then, after going in and out of jail for a couple of years, Frankie 'gets cuisine' and suddenly discovers he's a marvellous cook! Some (6) are a little slow-moving as we (7) on Frank's culinary prowess – did we really need to spend five minutes of the film watching Frank's perfect soufflé rising in the oven?

Soon Frankie is cooking for the rich and famous, including the Mafia big cheese Joe d'Ancona – a wonderfully over the top (8) by veteran Bruno Marmo – and eventually the President! Inevitably, in (9) of his efforts to go straight, Frankie is caught up in a secret (10) to assassinate the President. Without giving too much away, Frankie apparently goes along with the Mafia while really sabotaging things. There are some crazy (11), including gangsters exploding out of a giant birthday cake! The (12) maintains the almost slapstick feel with a manic tempo at times.

(13) some of the dialogue is a little laboured at times this is, all in (14), a thoroughly entertaining bit of fun, which I (15) whole-heartedly.

5 Discourse cloze

Read through the following text and choose from the list A–J the best phrase to fit each space. Some of the suggested answers do not fit at all. The exercise begins with an example (0).

The Roots of Discipline

Humour is strong and flexible. Tragedy is brittle. If we change all our children's misdeeds into tragedy, (0) Just. If all their mistakes are exposed and judged, as before the High Court, they will swiftly feel themselves to be victims of an unyielding system.

Soon they feel that not only what they did was bad, (1)

But if a child can make mistakes in safety, (2), or through laughter, his trust and feeling of parental acceptance is not destroyed. The lesson will, however, still be learned. Humour defuses a situation; (3)

Quite simply, the best way to convey discipline to our children is to discipline ourselves. We are the signposts to our children's futures, (4)

It makes sense to take responsibility for our own actions, and respect and accept our own feelings (5) We are then less likely to hide behind a liberal or an authoritarian mask that is unable to reflect the full range of our feelings.

- A and they are always looking to us to see where to go
- B if we wish to develop as human beings
- C but that they are intrinsically bad, too
- D as we travel through life together
- E but also that their parents are totally out of control
- F learn through the warmth of a cuddle
- G seriousness augments it
- H which is, of course, its greatest strength
- I before we discipline the child
- J they soon learn the unhappiness of existence

4.2 Fill in the gaps

Complete the gaps in the following passage by putting the verbs in brackets into an appropriate passive form. You will also have to put any other words in brackets in the correct place. Look at the example given.

Well, last month most of the lambs (1) were sold (sell) at the market, although we've still got ten, which (2) (probably send) next week. When all the lambs have gone, the sheep (3) (take) to another part of the farm. After that, we usually start on the fruit, although the blackcurrants (4) (already pick) because it was an early season this year. The plums can't (5) (pick) for another three weeks by law as they (6) (spray) only seven weeks ago. Of course, they still have (7) (gather) by hand, unlike the blackcurrants, which (8) (harvest) by machine nowadays. The plums and blackcurrants (9) (both make) into jam and preserve. Then we have what's called the 'bag fruit', which is apples and pears. Since the fruit doesn't have to be in good condition (10) (make) into cider and perry, it (11) (treat) pretty badly. For example, there are no skilled pickers involved, the trees (12) (just shake) until the fruit drops to the ground, where it (13) (collect) and (14) (put) into bags. As you can imagine, handling the bags is a very dirty job as the juice leaks out everywhere. But I hope the whole process (15) (automate) before much longer.

4.3 make/cause, etc.

Add a suitable ending to each of the following sentences using an infinitive verb form with or without to. Look at the example provided.

- 1 Reading an article about the 'greenhouse effect' persuaded Gary to travel by bicycle more frequently.
- 2 The lack of rain caused most of the plants
- 3 The park-keeper wouldn't let the children
- 4 Driving while under the influence of alcohol causes people

Smile Power

The expression on your face can actually dramatically (0) B your feelings and perceptions, and it has been proved that (1) smiling or frowning can create corresponding emotional responses. The idea was first (2) by a French physiologist, Israel Waynbaum, in 1906. He believed that different facial (3) affected the flow of blood to the brain, and that this could create positive or negative feelings. A happy smile or irrepressible (4) increased the blood flow and contributed to joyful feelings. But sad, angry expressions decreased the flow of oxygen-carrying blood, and created a vicious (5) of gloom and depression by effectively (6) the brain of essential fuel.

Psychologist Robert Zajonc rediscovered this early (7) , and (8) that the temperature of the brain could affect the production and synthesis of neurotransmitters – which definitely influence our moods and energy levels. He argues that an impaired blood flow could not (9) deprive the brain of oxygen, but create further chemical imbalance (10) inhibiting these vital hormonal messages. Zajonc goes on to propose that our brains remember that smiling is associated with being happy, and that by deliberately smiling through your tears you can (11) your brain to release uplifting neurotransmitters – replacing a depressed condition (12) a happier one. People suffering from psychosomatic (13) , depression and anxiety states could (14) from simply exercising their zygomatic (15) – which pull the corners of the mouth up and back to form a smile – several times an hour.

I Structural cloze

For questions 1–15, complete the following story by writing each missing word in the space. Use only one word for each space. The exercise begins with an example (0).

A summer job

'Oh good, you're here at last. I was wondering what time you'd (0) arrive,' snapped the boss. 'I've been waiting for you (1) three quarters of an hour!'

I apologised and explained that the early morning traffic had been (2) heavier than I'd expected.

'Oh dear! I don't suppose you're (3) to getting up so early after your time at university. To be honest, I'm surprised you were (4) to get here before midday,' he added sarcastically. I smiled and said nothing.

The job was driving a bus around Stratford (5) Cheryl, the boss's daughter, gave a description of the places of interest we were passing.

We set off at half past nine with a bus full of tourists. Suddenly Cheryl hissed into my ear, 'How (6) have you had your licence? You drive (7) a complete lunatic! Slow down or they won't see anything.'

'Sorry,' I said, gritting my teeth. 'I'll (8) my best.'

At 11 o'clock, the tourists and Cheryl went into Anne Hathaway's cottage so I decided to go and have a cup of coffee. The cafe was a (9) further away than I realised and I had to stand in the queue for ages – it (10) have taken me 20 minutes to get served. When I got back to the bus, Cheryl was furious.

'Where on earth have you (11)?' shouted Cheryl.

'I just went for a coffee. Your father said it (12) be OK,' I protested.

When we got back, Cheryl told her father about my dreadful behaviour. But before he (13) to open his mouth, I said 'Look, I've had just about enough of this. Don't bother to sack me, I won't be (14) in tomorrow!' and walked out.

I later found out that they had had four different drivers in (15) many weeks.

From what we had read in the (0) advertisement, it promised to be the holiday of a lifetime – not only a quality hotel in a top (1) resort, but also (2) cheap with it! We should have known it was too good to be true! We arrived at the airport to discover we only had (3) tickets and there was no guarantee we would be flying. Luckily, two places became free at the last minute and we took off. The flight lasted at least (4) as long as it should have and by the time we arrived, we were both feeling rather (5) , probably because of the dubious in-flight meal we had had. We were met by our guide, who seemed (6) incompetent and understood very little of what we said to him. Instead of the hotel we had seen in the photograph back home, he took us to a squalid little guesthouse much (7) away from the resort than we were expecting. We wanted to explain that there had been a dreadful mistake but it was (8) trying to complain – nobody could understand us!

4 Register cloze

Read the following information sheet about hiring a car while on holiday in Greece and use the information to complete the numbered gaps in the informal letter to a friend. Use no more than two words for each gap. The words you need do not occur in the information sheet. The exercise begins with an example (0).

GENERAL CAR HIRE CONDITIONS

- 1 Cars should be booked at the same time as your holiday. If added later, a fax or telex fee may be incurred.
- 2 A small charge (c. £5 per day) to offset extra insurance costs is made for additional drivers and payable locally.
- 3 Drivers must be at least 23 years of age for Groups A, B and C, 25 years of age for other Groups, and have held a full UK driving licence for 12 months. All drivers should be entered individually on the contract to be completed when collecting the car – you will need passport, driving licence, 'Hellas' voucher and a credit card.
- 4 Damage to the tyres, engine or underside of the car is not covered by insurance in Greece. A credit card imprint or cash deposit of approximately £100 will be required on delivery of the car, returnable at the end of the hire period on condition that the car is returned with no damage to the above.
- 5 Outside normal office hours (0800–2000) an out-of-hours delivery charge is payable locally, normally c. £15.
- 6 Child seats and roof racks are available on request only and at a charge of c. £3 per day payable locally.
- 7 Cars may be booked for periods of less than 7 days but the daily rate increases – please telephone us for a quote. Car hire prices are calculated on 24 hour periods.

Dear Fabienne,

Sorry it's taken me so long to get back in touch but I've been up to my eyes in work. Anyway, I did manage to find out about hiring a car if you book your holiday with 'Hellas'. The first thing is to book the car when you pay for your holiday or there'll be some extra (0) charges. If David's going to drive (1) , you'll have to pay another £5 a day. I know you're both (2) twenty-three but have you both (3) for more than 12 months? If you haven't, you won't be allowed to drive! Also, don't forget to (4) both your names on the contract you sign in Greece. They'll also ask you for a deposit for (5) £100 to (6) any damage you might do to the car. But don't worry, you'll (7) this back so long as you bring the car back in one (8) ! Child seats don't come as standard, so you'll have to (9) one for little Rory when you're there. It'll (10) you another £3 a day.

Indo-European Languages

Today, most European languages, and many Asian languages as far east as India, are very similar to each other. (0) ... about memorising French word lists in school, these so-called 'Indo-European' languages resemble English and each other in terms of vocabulary and grammar (1) Only 140 of the modern world's 5,000 tongues belong to this language family, (2) Thanks to the global expansion of Europeans since 1492 – especially people from England, Spain, Portugal, France and Russia – nearly half the world's present population of five billion now speaks an Indo-European language as its native tongue.

When, however, we go to parts of the world (3), we realise how unusual Europe's linguistic similarity is, and how it calls for explanation. (4), in areas of the New Guinea highlands (5), we find languages as different as English is from Chinese being spoken in neighbouring areas. (6) until some people speaking the mother tongue of the Indo-European language family began to dominate and pushed almost all other European languages out of existence.

Collocations

► It is very important to know which words frequently go together to form collocations (word partnerships). A good idea to help build up your knowledge of collocations is to create ‘key word grids’:

e.g.

verbs	describing words	key word	words that come after
catch	wrong		stop
miss	last	BUS	pass
get on	crowded		fare
stop	night		station

Try to make your own grids with common key words.

4 Dictionary skills

In each of the following exercises you should use a good English/English dictionary to help you find the answers.

4.1 Opposites – prefixes

Find the opposites for the following words using the prefixes in the box. The first one has been done for you.

	dis-	il-	im-	in-	ir-	mis-	non-	un-

Negative prefixes

► Record in groups those words that start with the same negative prefix:
e.g. (verbs) misbehave, misinform, mislay
(adjectives) misguided, misnamed

► Remember that certain prefixes occur before certain spellings:
e.g. il- (illogical, illiterate) – usually before a word beginning with l im- (impersonal, immature) – usually before a word beginning with m or p ir- (irrational, irreparable) – usually before a word beginning with r

4.2 Synonyms and antonyms

Write a (near) synonym and antonym for each of the following adjectives.

	SYNONYM	ANTONYM

Phonetics

► Some phonetic symbols are quite easy to understand e.g. /k/, /z/, /p/ but there are a few which need to be learnt. Do you know what sounds these symbols represent? If not, check in a dictionary.
/ɔ:/, /θ/, /dʒ/, /ð/, /ɜ:/, /tʃ/

4.3 Phonetics

Find the pronunciation key at the beginning or end of your dictionary. Use it to help you match the following words with the vowel sound they contain. Write the correct phonetic symbol in the box after each word.

words		sounds
1 cut	<input type="checkbox"/>	/u:/
2 caught	<input type="checkbox"/>	/æ/
3 kit	<input type="checkbox"/>	/ɔ:/
4 cat	<input type="checkbox"/>	/ɜ:/
5 cot	<input type="checkbox"/>	/ɑ:/
6 curt	<input type="checkbox"/>	/ʌ/
7 coot	<input type="checkbox"/>	/ɪ/
8 cart	<input type="checkbox"/>	/ɒ/

4.4 Spelling vs pronunciation

Similar spelling does not always mean similar pronunciation in English. Decide if the following pairs of words have the same vowel sound. Write S (same) or D (different) in the box.

9 bomb	comb	<input type="checkbox"/>
10 low	tow	<input type="checkbox"/>
11 weight	eight	<input type="checkbox"/>
12 stove	glove	<input type="checkbox"/>
13 pour	sour	<input type="checkbox"/>

6 Writing – Report writing

You are writing a report for ‘Bocia’, the manufacturers of the new ‘Bambo’ pushchair, based on the results of interviews with mothers and fathers all over the country. The aim of the interviews was to find out how good the pushchair is. Expand the following notes into a full report using the phrases in the box below. You may also use subheadings e.g. Introduction, Observations, Recommendations, etc. Write about 250 words.

The aim of this report is to ... It is based on ...
 It was found that ... A/The majority/minority of people ...
 In the words of ... On the whole ... It is interesting that ...
 It is recommended that ... It is advisable for ‘Bocia’ to ...
 ‘Bocia’ might consider ... To sum up/summarise ... On balance ...

Notes for report on new ‘Bambo’ pushchair
 Number of people interviewed: 150
 Interview locations: London, Bristol, Birmingham, Gloucester, Glasgow, Leeds.

Sample comments:
 ‘Compared to our old pushchair, this is fantastic – it’s so light and manageable.’
 Mrs Roberta Long, Gloucester
 ‘My little boy really likes going out in it – so it must be comfy, mustn’t it?’ Mr
 Adam Blair, London
 ‘Well, we quite like it but it’s a bit stiff to open and close really. That’s our only complaint.’ Mr and Mrs Osmonth, Leeds
 ‘It folds up really small and fits in the boot of the car no problem. The only thing is it’s always getting stuck in little holes.’ Mrs Joy McCarthy, Glasgow

Analysis:
Good points
 – light
 – easy to steer
 – good for carrying shopping
 – attractive design and colours
 – comfortable for baby
 – small when folded
 – 4 positions for baby, from sitting up to lying flat

Bad points
 – difficult to open and close
 – wheels too small so it gets stuck in holes on rough ground
 – wheels difficult to lock as mechanism is too small to operate
 by foot

Suggestions (with diagram):

7 Register cloze

For questions 1–16, read the following comments from a language school student questionnaire and use the information to complete the numbered gaps in the formal memorandum to staff. Use no more than two words for each gap. The words you need do not occur in the students’ comments. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Typical answers to feedback questionnaire:

Classes

‘My teacher was late for class every day except the first Monday!’
‘I came to England to study English not to play games – I’m not a child!!!’

Facilities

‘My classroom (A35) is a mess – can’t the repairmen fix the cracks in the walls and stick the wallpaper back on? Only one of the lights was working during the whole 4-week course!’
‘I liked the books and things in the self-access centre but it’s in a bad place right at the top of the library on the fourth floor! Why not put it somewhere students spend more time?’
‘The “Munch House Cafe Bar” is OK – I liked the new chairs and tables. Some of the sandwiches were off and they always ran out of coke when it was hot!’

Food

‘I didn’t like the food at all – it’s always the same – chips, chips, chips!’
‘All the food is boring – it has no real taste.’

Activities

‘I liked the tour of the city but the sports were terrible, nobody knew where to go or what time to arrive!’
‘Tom Shark was very rude to the students and we had to pay for things I thought I’d paid for when I paid for the course – like the BBQs and discos!’

RE: STUDENT FEEDBACK QUESTIONNAIRE

I am afraid there were a large number of (0) complaints about the school at the end of this course. The following is a summary of the most recurrent comments.

Lessons

(1) seems to be a problem with many teachers, in fact one managed to be on time only once during the course. There also seems to be a feeling among students that the lessons weren’t (2) and that too many games were played in class. Many of our students find such activities rather (3)

Facilities

Various students noted that the classrooms are in a (4) of repair and that we need to pay greater and more immediate attention to (5) As regards the new self-access centre, many students praised the wide selection of (6) but commented negatively about its (7) at the top of the library building, which, it seems, makes it somewhat (8) for students. Another more positive element in the school is the “Munch House”. Many students commented favourably about the (9) but also pointed out that the sandwiches are often (10) and that soft drinks are frequently in short (11) particularly during hot weather.

Catering

The food lacks (12) with a great deal of the same food appearing day after day. It also seems that the food is far too (13) for international students.

Activities

There were numerous negative comments in this area. The sports activities seem very (14) organised with students having no clear instructions as to where or when to play. Certain members of the activities staff were also described as (15) Finally, it is clear that many students are being charged again for activities they paid for in (16), such as barbecues and discotheques.

I propose to hold an emergency meeting to discuss how best to address the most urgent issues outlined above. The meeting will be this Friday 23 June starting at 4.30pm in the staff room.

All staff are expected to attend.

- 9 Look, we can't have a serious conversation if you're going to be so hysterical. You're just no at all!
- 10 Some men still fail to their fair of the housework.

3 Phrasal verbs

Complete the following dialogue with the correct form of suitable phrasal verbs. See the example.

Jackie: Have you heard the latest?

Lesley: No, what's happened?

Jackie: Well, it seems Emma and Rory have (1) broken off their engagement.

Lesley: Really? I must say it doesn't surprise me. They were always (2) with each other and then having to kiss and (3) They were bound to (4) sooner or later.

Jackie: Well, if you ask me, it was more than just arguments. I'm pretty sure Rory was (5) her with that 'old friend' of his, Sarah, from university. I heard him (6) her to the pub with him just the other day and then, surprise, surprise, next morning Emma's complaining that Rory (7) her for their weekly visit to the cinema!

Lesley: She's better off without him, in my opinion. She's a pretty tough character – she'll soon (8) him!

Jackie: Yes. Let's hope she (9) someone more sensible next time. They were never really suited. I'm just surprised she didn't (10) him sooner – he's such an egotist!

4 Dependent prepositions

Put the correct prepositions in the gaps in the text below. The first one has been done for you.

I must admit that I cringe (1) at the prospect of going to see my brother. He is, I suppose, fairly well-read (2) his field, which is medicine. However, the way he insists (3) always being right all the time, regardless (4) how well-informed his conversational adversary may be, makes me quite angry. Whenever anything concerned (5) medicine crops up in conversation, he puffs himself up and prepares to 'inform' people. His attitude (6) people who get their facts slightly wrong is insufferable. He cannot just let things go, he is just not comfortable (7) inaccuracies. It is almost as if he is dropping (8) status if he fails to pick someone up on a point. I remember him once arguing with a dinner guest for over an hour on the difference (9) the hard and soft palate! No wonder his wife is always complaining (10) him!

5 Writing – Information sheet

You have been asked to design an eye-catching information leaflet about the dangers of household poisons to children. Using the information below, create your leaflet. Remember to use main headings and sub-headings; to break up the text in order to avoid blocks; to use visuals e.g. blobs, numbers, asterisks, etc, different styles and sizes of writing, underlining, different colours, boxes and arrows.

Hundreds of children are taken to hospital every year with symptoms of poisoning. Most common causes are household products (for kids tablets = sweets, bottle of bleach = lemonade, a paint brush covered in paint = an ice lolly, rat poison = talcum powder) and plants and berries in the garden.

Parents must be alert at all times – NB keep all medicines locked in cabinets or out of children's reach, fit safety catches to cupboards where cleaning products are stored; teach kids not to drink from bottles or eat brightly coloured berries in the garden.

If you think your child has been poisoned, act quickly – don't wait and see what happens! Don't make your child vomit; go straight to the Accident and Emergency ward of your local hospital; take the plant, berries or substance with you; try and find out how many tablets/berries/etc your child has swallowed.

6 Structural cloze

For questions 1–15, complete the following extract from a professional journal by writing each missing word in the space. Use only one word for each space. The exercise begins with an example.

Thinking about Family Life

Family life continues to occupy (0) a somewhat ambiguous position in public debate and policy in Britain today. On the one hand, references (1) the importance of the family, however defined (2) understood, (3) rarely absent from speeches at political party conferences or statements from religious leaders. On the (4) hand, (5) contrast to some other European countries, we do not have a minister (6) special responsibilities for ‘the family’ and (7) do we have anything (8) a coherent programme that could be called a family policy.

Some sociologists might lend their support to particular programmes or social policies, (9) the basis of the evidence as they see it. More (10) , however, the popular impression would seem to be (11) the sociologists provide the facts about family life and that (12) facts, thus ‘discovered’, provide the basis for public statements or, possibly, public policy. For (13) , sociologists may provide facts about the circumstances of lone mothers and (14) children and these studies (15) inform policy-makers.

7 Word formation

For questions 1–15, read the two texts below. Use the words in the boxes to form one word that fits in the same numbered space in the text. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Gender on Screen

Many (0) researchers have suggested that the media portray men and women in different and often (1) ways, arguing that this can lead to the (2) of gender stereotyping. (3) films are sometimes considered to be a ‘male’ genre with a limited range of characters for audience (4) Stallone, Schwarzenegger, Willis and Van Damme are (5) names, whose character types are fairly (6)The subject (here) of such movies will usually be male, white, young, aggressive, vengeful, strong, invulnerable and (7) , using weapons and moving the narrative along. It is (8) the body of the masculine hero that provides the focus of the spectators’ gaze and visual pleasure.

Nappy Alarm

Some babies bawl when they have a wet nappy, others carry on gurgling (9) , leaving their mothers none the wiser and the baby at risk of nappy rash. Now novice British inventor, Paul Kimsey, has come up with a (10) alarm which warns parents when it's time to change their baby's wet nappy. The electronic device placed in the nappy alerts the parent by sounding a (11) bleeper carried on a belt or in a bag. Mr Kimsey, 36, came up with the idea seven years ago after witnessing the (12) suffered by a relative's baby. He was (13) to develop it at the time as he was too busy running the family car mat manufacturing business. He has fine-tuned his idea (14) since that first (15)

7 Discourse cloze

For questions 1–5, read through the following article and then choose from the list A–J the best phrase given below it to fill each of the spaces. Some of the suggested answers do not fit at all. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Small is Beautiful

Fritz Schumacher, most famous for his work 'Small is beautiful', wasn't really an environmentalist at all. He was an economist, a philosopher, a wordsmith, a baker of bread and planter of trees and, together with Barbara Ward, one of the first pioneers (0) ... sustainable growth.

The subtitle of Small is Beautiful is 'Economics as if people mattered'. And that informs all his economic writing. It was, for instance, incomprehensible to Schumacher that politicians could so obsessively pursue the goal of endless economic growth (1)

If idolised as the most essential task of society, economic growth bears bitter fruit and tends to defeat itself. Set it up as the supreme national objective and you will inevitably promote greed, impatience, ruthlessness and envy, destroying those fundamental virtues (2)

But he was no believer in zero-growth either, (3) 'To replace the idea of rapid economic growth by the idea of zero growth, that is to say, of organised stagnation, is to replace one emptiness with another.'

That kind of pragmatic balancing act is classic Schumacher doctrine (4) It characterises his lifelong preoccupation with the scale of things; it wasn't that he thought everything big was automatically ugly but rather that we'd lost the art of gauging 'human scale' in terms of what works best in practice for individuals and society. .

In the gentlest of ways, he often remonstrated with environmentalists for being oblivious to such social and economic concerns. He couldn't understand why they were more concerned with the damage being done to wildlife than with that being done to the human mind (5) – 'the rotting of brains of millions of workers could be classed as the worst pollution of all.'

- A even though this was the standard ecoposition in those days
- B without which society cannot function satisfactorily
- C and typical of environmentalists of his day
- D through exposure to degrading and soulless work
- E of the classic all-consuming capitalist Western civilisation
- F without ever assessing the real benefits they derive from that growth
- G and often advocated the benefits of 'a culture of poverty'
- H and one of the reasons he is still so relevant
- I without any form of quality of life
- J of what we now call

Progress Test Three

Units 9 – 11

I Structural cloze

For questions 1–15, complete the following passage by writing each missing word in the space. Use one word only for each space. The exercise begins with an example (0).

A mountain excursion

My friend, Nigel, (0)who..... had just completed an advanced orienteering course, had somehow (1) me to go on an excursion across the mountains with him. When we set out just after lunch, it had been clear and sunny but for the past hour or so it had been getting foggier and foggier. We had been walking along under a blanket of thick fog for about half an hour (2) Nigel suddenly turned to me and announced we were lost!

‘Oh, that’s marvellous!’ I said. ‘First of all you (3) me come on this stupid hike with you, you lead me up a mountain in the fog and now you tell me we’re lost! I thought you knew (4) to read a map.’

‘I (5)’, protested Nigel. ‘it’s just that all the landmarks have been covered by this fog.’

‘OK, OK, but it’s getting dark now, what are we going to do?’ I asked.

‘We’ll have to find somewhere to spend the night,’ he said ominously.

We walked on a little way (6) we came up against an old stone wall (7) seemed to be part of an old farmhouse (8) I supposed had been abandoned by its former occupants.

‘Well, it looks like survival tactics from now on,’ said Nigel, apparently enjoying the idea. ‘The (9) it gets, the better I like it,’ he added with a grin, (10) me to wonder if he wasn’t getting a little overexcited.

‘Right, (11) we need now is some firewood. (12) I go and get some, you stay here and unpack the survival kit from the bottom of my rucksack,’ ordered Nigel as he disappeared into the fog.

(13) about five minutes, he came back with an armful of sticks which appeared to have been cut into convenient lengths and just left on the mountain.

‘OK, I’m going to try and fix up a shelter against the wall. In the (14), you get a fire started,’ he barked.

No (15) had I got the fire started than I heard a movement. I turned round to see a little old lady looking at me rather angrily.

‘What on earth do you think you’re doing in my field? For goodness sake put that wood back, I need it to repair the fence with.’

2 Phrasal verbs

Complete each of the following sentences with the appropriate form of a suitable phrasal verb. An example is provided.

Example: I enjoy looking through the encyclopaedia from time to time.

- 1 Sheila her duties well enough but she's just not interested in her job.
- 2 When I woke up, everyone else had gone to bed and the fire had
- 3 We were on holiday there when the civil war
- 4 Don't forget to your job application before this Friday.
- 5 There was so much snow that our village was completely and food had to be brought in by helicopter.

3 Error correction

In most of the lines of the following text there is a mistake connected with the verbs (tense, form, agreement, etc). Underline each mistake and write the correction in the space at the end of the line. If there is no mistake in a line, put a tick (✓) in the space. The exercise begins with two examples (0).

Solving the elk problem

Motorists who find themselves driving along the lonely roads through Sweden's extensive pine forests were more relaxed these days. Small plastic bottles which are being hung from roadside trees had calmed their deepest fear – colliding with an elk!

Each bottle contain a pungent blend of animal fat and wolf's urine. The idea is simple – because wolves are hunting elks the smell makes the elks to avoid the roads like the plague.

'It really works, we're very exciting about it,' said spokesman Lars Olofson, adding that 25,000 accidents have been caused by elks every year, according to research he's just completed.

The cost of protecting the roads will have been cut by the new potion, which cost only 2 krona per metre compared with 40 krona per metre for the traditional metal fences used before.

The wolf cocktail had been invented two years ago by Mr Olofson's father, who used it to stop elks to eat his onions.

'It's a top-secret formula,' added Lars, 'if everyone started using it, the elks would soon have become desensitised to it and perhaps they would no longer feared their old enemy – the wolf!'

4 Discourse cloze

For questions 1–6, read through the following text and then choose from the list A–J the best phrase to fit each of the spaces. Write one letter (A–J) in the spaces. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Mystery of the dying frogs

Many of the world's amphibians, particularly frogs and toads, are becoming extinct faster than scientists can determine the causes. At the Third World Congress of Herpetology, held in Prague in August, (0) Serious declines and several probable extinctions have been reported from the Pacific North West of America, from Central America and from Western Australia. While most amphibian declines around the world are attributable to habitat destruction (1), some species (but not all) have declined rapidly in nature reserves, national parks and other areas (2)

Karen Lips, of the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute in Panama, has found large numbers of dead and dying frogs along streams. The disease which has killed them seems to be moving southwards through the mountains of Central America. One symptom is a thickening of the skin, (3) This appears to be caused by a protozoan parasite. A similar organism may also be responsible for the deaths of thousands of frogs in the mountains of Queensland, Australia. Urgent research is under way (4)

Typically, herpetologists have had to respond to these declines (5) Now, recent work by Ross Alford, of James Cook University, Australia, has suggested one way to detect a decline early on; measure a frog's limbs. His study has shown that fluctuating asymmetry (random variation in the size of paired structures on the left and right side of the body) increases in the limbs of frogs (6)

- A to determine if this is indeed the case
- B set aside for the protection of biodiversity
- C as quickly as possible under the circumstances
- D as their population size declines
- E in all these three areas
- F into the effects of DDT on amphibians in the US and Kenya
- G after they have occurred
- H which effectively smothers the frog
- I which have built up immunity to such diseases
- J it became clear that the phenomenon is a global one

5 Word formation

Read the texts below. Use the words in the boxes to form one word that fits in the same numbered spaces in the texts. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Afraid of giving

Just as women are afraid of receiving, so men are afraid of giving. To extend himself in giving to others means to risk (0)failure....., correction and disapproval. These consequences are most (1) because deep inside his unconscious he holds an (2) belief that he is not good enough. This belief was formed and reinforced in (3) every time he thought he was expected to do better. When his (4) went unnoticed or were (5) , deep in his unconscious he began forming the belief that he was not good enough. A man is particularly vulnerable to this belief. It generates within him the fear of failing. He wants to give but is afraid he will fail, so he doesn't try. If his biggest fear is (6) , he is naturally going to avoid any (7) risks.

- G I’ve got to go to the toilet for a minute.
- H I seem to be all fingers and
- I when I asked her about her job – she’s been sacked!
- J when two old ladies started hitting each other with their handbags.

STUDY TIP

Learning idioms and metaphors

► A good way to remember an idiom or a metaphor is to draw a picture of it (it doesn’t have to be very good) – this will help you remember better than simply writing it down! Use the 4-column method shown below.

PICTURE	FIRST LETTERS	IDIOM	EXAMPLE SENTENCE
	k..... a..... e..... o.....	keep an eye on	Could you keep an eye on my bag while I go to the toilet
	o..... t..... b.....	have something on the brain	Robert must have golf on the brain – he never stops talking about it!

Once you have created this grid, you can test yourself by covering everything except the pictures with a piece of paper to see if you can remember. If you can’t, slide the piece of paper to the right to reveal the first letter. Try it, it works.

6 Expressions of concession

► Study box, SB page 218

Use a suitable expression of concession to complete the following sentences. Initial letters are provided to help you. See the example.

- 1 Although she didn't have the right qualifications, she was offered the job.
- 2 We can't seem to save any money n..... m..... how hard we try!
- 3 M..... a..... we enjoyed our time in India, we wouldn't want to go and live there again.
- 4 They managed to find their way out of the jungle i..... s..... o..... not having a map or compass.
- 5 W..... we appreciate how much work you've put into the project, it's just not what we wanted.
- 6 You'll end up spending lots of money w..... airline you fly with.
- 7 H..... difficult it might seem now, you'll be glad you did it in the end.
- 8 D..... t..... f..... t..... they phoned well in advance, all the tickets had been sold.
- 9 I'm sorry but we're going to have to economise, w..... you might think.
- 10 H..... h..... we tried, we just couldn't make ourselves understood.

7 Vocabulary

► Focus on Vocabulary, SB page 220

Complete the following sentences with suitable collocations connected with the body. Initial letters are provided to help you. The first one has been done for you.

- 1 Jake sounded relaxed but his body language showed he was feeling threatened.
- 2 It was a h..... c....., so they were lucky nobody was killed.
- 3 We were so far away we tried to communicate using h..... s.....
- 4 Steve wants a serious h..... t..... about our relationship - I'm dreading it!
- 5 I'm sorry. I spoke without thinking. It was a k..... r.....
- 6 Annie gave us a quick s..... of her life as a double agent during the Cold War.
- 7 And then there was an e..... n..... as the gigantic wave crashed down on to the boat.
- 8 Carla is very insecure. She never makes e..... c..... when talking to you.
- 9 I have terrible b..... c..... . My toes turn blue in the winter months!
- 10 Judy told us a h..... s..... about finding giant spiders under the bed when she was living in the Amazon.

8 Word formation

For questions 1–15, read the two texts below. Use the words given to form one word that fits in the same numbered space in the text. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Take care in the sun

The sun should be enjoyed but (0) overexposure can cause sunburn, leading to (1) skin ageing and increased risk of skin cancer. It is the ultraviolet rays which cause this; even in the UK they can damage your skin, and UV is much more (2) the nearer the equator you go. You should stay out of the sun during the 2 hours around midday, use shade at other times, a sun hat and (3) woven but loose clothing. (4) creams suitable for your skin type can help protect (5) exposed parts of the body. A further sun related risk is heatstroke, caused by (6) Avoid strenuous activity during the hottest hours and make sure you drink plenty of (7) drinks (best is water which has been boiled or soft drinks from sealed cans or bottles) to replace body fluids.

Plastic surgery

Most impressive is Dr Ohana's (8) to the individual needs of his patients, honed by (9) experience and his earlier career as a doctor. Born in Marrakech in 1951, Ohana grew up in an (10) household. When Ohana was 10, however, his father severed the nerves and tendons of a hand and he could no longer play a musical instrument. Moved by the devastating effect this had on his father and his (11) route to (12) , Ohana decided to become a doctor. He became a surgeon, specialising in cancer patients. It was during this period that he learnt the (13) of finding out how patients feel (14) He believes it to be a crucial element in cosmetic surgery. 'No matter how able a surgeon is, the success of an operation depends entirely on why the patient has come for a (15) ,' he says.

8 Writing – Character reference

Read through the following character reference written for someone who has applied for a job as a member of staff at an exclusive Health Farm and make any changes you think are necessary. See the example.

~~About my acquaintance~~ Ms Maria Hempel

Dear Sir or Madam,

I'm dropping you a line in support of Ms Maria Hempel's application to become a resident health and fitness trainer at your place. I've known Maria for getting on for about ten years in her job as aerobics instructor at the gym which I'm manager of - 'Avalon Club' is its name.

The first thing I must say about her is that she's brilliant at teaching aerobics. The feedback forms I get people to fill in have all rated her extremely highly. The only little niggle some of the older people had was with her pink hair but I expect she'll change that if she gets the job at your posh place.

I also know she has been following a health and nutrition course and has just passed the exams and got another certificate.

But Maria is not just a good instructor she's also always on time, never away through illness, and a humorous and well-liked member of the gym instructors' team who gets on like a house on fire with everybody.

In a nutshell, I'd say Maria will make an excellent member of staff for you. We'll all be sad to see her go from here and I'll certainly find it hard to get anyone as good as her again.

Best wishes,

Jim Long

I Review of grammatical and syntactical structures

► Focus on Grammar, SB page 229

Most (but not all) of the sentences in the following sections contain classic mistakes. Correct those you find. See the example provided.

STUDY TIP

-ing or infinitive

► With the verbs remember, forget, regret and stop the choice between -ing or the infinitive depends on whether the verb following them happens before or after.

-ing = before
 infinitive = after

e.g. Do you remember meeting me last year?
meeting happened before remember

Did you remember to post that letter?
to post happened (or not) after remember

3 Tenses

Decide which tense is being described in each ‘time line’ and short description and then write an example sentence in that tense. A cross shows an individual action or event and a wavy line shows an activity happening continuously or repeatedly. Look at the example given.

- 1

PastNowFuture

Tense = Present simple

never changing/always true

e.g. I always brush my teeth before I go to bed.
- 2

PastNowFuture

Tense =

happening now/during a period around now

e.g. I this month.
- 3

PastNowFuture

Tense =

past event where time is not mentioned or where the present result is more important than when the event happened

e.g. I so I'm not hungry, thanks.
- 4

PastNowFuture

Tense =

action started in past and a) continuing now b) finished but evidence remains e.g. a) I for an hour.

b) I that's why my face is so red.
- 5

Past a) b) Now Future

Tense =

activity over time in past a) at a certain time b) when another event occurred

e.g. a) I this time last week.

b) I when the phone rang.
- 6

PastNowFuture

Tense =

event(s) in past occurring before a point of reference/another event in past

e.g. By the time the police arrived, the robbers
- 7

PastNowFuture

Tense =

activity started before and continuing up to a point of reference in past e.g. I for ten hours when I fell asleep exhausted.

8 Past Now Future
 ←-----|-----|-----→ Tense =
activity seen as occurring around a stated time/reference point in the future
 e.g. I this time next month.

9 Past Now Future
 ←-----|-----x-----→ Tense = future event(s) happening before another future event/point of reference e.g. I hope I when I meet her next week.

10 Past Now Future
 ←-----|-----|-----→ Tense = activity started before and continuing up to a future point of reference e.g. I for three years next June.

4 Review of tenses

In the following passage, put the verbs in brackets into a suitable (active or passive) tense and put any adverbial expressions in the correct place. The first one has been done for you.

I must admit that Maria's English (1) is improving (improve) every day. Three weeks ago she (2) (manage) to book us on to the Portsmouth to Santander ferry at the local travel agent's.

The night before we (3) (be) due to leave, she (4) (ring) me up to remind me to be on time. 'Don't forget the train (5) (leave) at 7.35 and if we (6) (miss) that, we (7) (miss) the ferry too!' she said.

'Of course I (8) (get) there on time,' I replied, somewhat annoyed. 'You're the one who (9) (always turn up) late for things!'

Surprisingly, we both (10) (arrive) at the station in time (11) (catch) the train. We (12) (sit) on the train for about ten minutes when we realised, to our horror, that it (13) (go) in the wrong direction! We got off at the next station where a ticket seller informed us that there (14) (not be) another train to Portsmouth until 8.45. We explained that we had to catch the ferry at 10 o'clock. 'Well, if I (15) (be) you,' he said, 'I (16) (catch) the coach. That should get you to Portsmouth before the ferry (17) (sail). But you (18) (have) to hurry, it (19) (leave) the bus station in about five minutes!'

We shot off like lightning despite the heavy rucksacks on our backs and jumped on the coach just as the driver (20) (shut) the doors. We (21) (just collapse) in our seats with a sigh of relief, when the driver announced, 'Sorry everyone but the motorway (22) (still repair) so we (23) (not get) to Portsmouth until 9.45.'

We groaned in despair. That gave us only fifteen minutes to get to the ferry terminal. We arrived at Portsmouth bus station at 9.40 and jumped straight into a taxi.

'The Santander ferry terminal and please hurry,' I shouted, 'or it (24) (go) before we (25) (get) there!'

To our astonishment, the taxi driver calmly switched off the engine and turned round. '(26) you (not hear)?' he said, smiling, 'the ferry workers (27) (come) out on strike last night!'

'Oh no!' I cried in disbelief. 'If only I (28) (listen) to the news this morning!'

5 Writing – Report

Complete the report opposite based on the following notes. Use only one word in each space. Two examples are given for guidance.

- CD tried out by 30 intermediate level EFL students
- all completed brief feedback questionnaire
- 10 also interviewed in greater depth
- most liked the package – particularly chance to follow same lesson through different ‘paths’ i.e. grammar, pronunciation or vocabulary
‘I love following the vocabulary path.’ Marina Gomez
‘My problem is pronunciation so I follow that path.’ Kimiko Kamogawa
‘I need to know the grammar or I’m not happy.’ Franz Brandt
- all liked the idea of personalised learning speed
- authors’ worry that material was ‘too low level’ was unjustified
- some problems with pilot version – clicked on some buttons and nothing happened! → need for programmers to go through everything carefully
- main worry was over pronunciation strand – students couldn’t really ‘monitor’ themselves and continued to make mistakes which they thought correct → possibility of inbuilding ‘voice recognition’ software?
- 17 students did not like the graphics → definitely needs to be reworked
NB Most mentioned ‘dull’ colours
- users unfamiliar with computer mouse couldn’t cope → need for optional introductory lesson on using PC?

Report on Boxhill Press ‘Intermediate English CD ROM’ (Pilot Version)

Introduction

The (1) aim of this report is to describe the reaction of (2) thirty individual students to the new ‘Intermediate English CD ROM’. It is (3) on written (4) from all of the students and face-to face (5) with a representative number of them.

Positive notes

On the (6), the students liked the CD package. (7) particular, they enjoyed being able to (8) their preferred ‘path’ through each unit. (9) to Franz Brandt, a German student, he wouldn’t be happy unless he could follow the grammar path, (10) other students were happy to follow different paths. (11), all students liked the fact that they could progress through the material at their (12) speed. (13) enough, the students all found the material sufficiently challenging at intermediate level.

Negative points

As might have been (14), there were some technical problems with this pilot version. It (15), for example, that several of the click boxes were inactive. In (16) to this, concern was expressed that less computer-literate users found mouse control difficult. More (17), it was (18) by most students that the graphics were too dull. Perhaps an even greater (19) for concern at this stage is that it is impossible for students to effectively self-assess their performance on the pronunciation path.

Conclusions and recommendations

On (20), it appears that Boxhill Press have produced a very promising product, which should soon establish itself as a market leader. (21), it is strongly (22) that certain changes be made to the pilot version, (23) that the programmers ensure that all click-boxes are active, that Boxhill add an optional introductory lesson for the less computer-literate, that more vibrant colours be used in the graphics, and, most (24), that Boxhill investigate the possibility of adding ‘voice recognition’ software to the CD to make the pronunciation path more effective for self-assessment.

6 Wordcheck – Studying and examinations

In the grid below there are 18 words connected with studying and taking exams: 7 are hidden horizontally, 7 vertically and 4 diagonally. When you have found them all, complete the sentences with some of them. Three have been found for you.

7 Editing skills

In most lines of the following text there is one word which is wrongly spelled, including the use of capital letters. Underline each wrongly spelled word and write the correct spelling in the space provided. If there are no spelling mistakes in a line, indicate this with a tick (✓). Look at the examples provided (0).

If you're going skiing this winter, here's a cautionary tale.
Last december three friends decided to go on a cheap skiing holiday in the dolomites in the north of Italy. Being an adventurous lot, they decided to go by car, which turned out to be Dan's ancient VW Beetle. On the way there, they had no problems except for a little quarreling about whose turn it was to drive. The trouble started on there first day's skiing when Amy panicked, fell over and broke her ankle. On the second day, Charlie woke up saying, 'I think I'm dieing'.
In fact, he had caught pneumonia. On the third day, Dan tried to be too clever and broke a leg! All of this meant they payed plenty in doctor's bills and then, with nobody able to drive, they traveled back by plane and the car went back by train! So, all in all, it was an extremly expensive trip!

Progress Test Four

Units 12–14

I Structural cloze

For questions 1–15, complete the following story by writing each missing word in the space. Use only one word for each space. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Business affairs

Jeff Weaver knew it was going to be a tough meeting. A year ago he had been regarded (0) as the company's rising star in the export department, signing contracts for massive orders from state-run companies in Lavanian. It looked as (1) he had saved the company's fortunes. But all that was before the collapse of the Lavanian economy and the inevitable non-payment of most invoices.

The Managing Director, Derek Robinson, had decided to (2) an extraordinary meeting (3) look into the matter. Jeff was now about to (4) asked to give a detailed explanation of the disaster.

Mr Robinson coughed and tapped the table. 'Right then, everyone. Let's get (5) to business. I'm sure you're all aware of the reasons for this meeting. So without further preamble, I'll call on Mr Weaver who, I hope, will be able to put our minds (6) rest about this worrying state of affairs.'

Jeff stood up and decided to go on the attack. 'Thank you, Mr Robinson. First of all, I must admit that many mistakes have been made over the past twelve months – but not just by me! I think it's clear that I am (7) used as a shield to protect a number of more senior colleagues, who (8) have the courage to assume some responsibility for this mess. In particular, my immediate superior, Georgina Bunyon, who has never seen eye (9) eye with me, and who is using this crisis (10) a way of (11) me removed from the company!'

Everyone turned to look at Georgina, who was (12) her fists and glaring pointedly at Jeff.

'No-one (13) have predicted the collapse of the Lavanian economy. However, to avoid further embarrassment, I have decided to resign.' And with this, Jeff marched out of the meeting.

Two months later, Jeff and Georgina were sitting looking at Lake Como from the terrace of a beautiful villa (14) they had just bought with part of what they called their 'Lavanian fund'.

'Any regrets, darling?' asked Georgina.

'Only one,' said Jeff, smiling. 'I (15) we'd taken twice as much!'

2 Phrasal verbs

Complete each of the following sentences with the appropriate form of a suitable phrasal verb. An example is shown.

Example: We all thought the lecture would be rather boring but it turned out to be extremely interesting.

- 1 As we didn't have an instructions manual, we had to
..... how to set up the stereo by trial and error.
- 2 It's a formal occasion so we'll have to get to the nines – no jeans and pullovers this time!
- 3 Toby's really well at his new job. He's already been promoted twice.
- 4 Sarah's really lucky. She left her car in a no-parking area for five hours and,
believe it or not, she with it!
- 5 Oh dear, Helen, your glass is almost empty. Let me it

3 Register cloze

For questions 1–12, read the following memo from the Director of Studies to the new Health and Safety officer of a language school and use the information to complete the numbered gaps in the fire notice. Use no more than two words for each gap. The words you need do not occur in the memo. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Memorandum

RE: Fire notices for inspection next week

As you know, we've got the all-important inspection coming up next week and we still haven't got any proper fire notices up!

Can you put something official-looking together on the computer – don't forget to laminate the notices! Make sure you include the following:

- if you see/smell a fire, set off the nearest alarm
- try and put the fire out if you can but don't get burnt/trapped
- go to the meeting place (behind the library)
- wait for your name to be called out
- if you hear the alarm, get out straight away – don't try and pick up any books, coats, etc
- go to the meeting place but don't lose control or run
- don't go back into the building until the senior fire officer (that's you by the way!) says it's OK

4 Error correction

In most lines of the following text there is one unnecessary word. It is either grammatically incorrect or does not fit in with the sense of the text. For each numbered line, find the unnecessary word and then write it in the space provided. Some lines are correct. Indicate these with a tick (✓). The exercise begins with two examples (0).

Note-taking

Obsessive note-taking which is the occupational hazard of students. They believe they remember things best by writing them down. Writing things down, however, it is still a practice that can be abused as it can so easily lead back to a passive and unconfident attitude to books; every little point the student reads may in its context be so persuasive and that he feels obliged to include it in his notes, which also become an abridged version of the original. What the obsessive note-taker usually postpones learning by understanding till he comes to read in his notes; but as such these are not always the product of understanding, they may be lengthy and unreliable. Furthermore, reading sentence-by-sentence or paragraph-by-paragraph note-taking commits the reader to further page-by-page reading; and as we shall see later, this situation is not necessarily the best way of reading slowly and understanding a book. The reader's notes should be both the outcome of understanding and not the prelude to it. Notes written of this kind are not only far more briefer, but also better organised and more personalised.

For questions 1–15, read the following passage carefully and decide which word best fits each space. The exercise begins with an example (0).

Lunatics

One of the oldest beliefs in folklore is that a full moon can (0) turn a sane person into a madman. Robert Louis Stevenson’s Dr Jekyll and Mr Hyde was (1) by the real-life activities of Charles Hyde, who (2) horrendous crimes during the full moon. In 1992, Christopher Gore began a sentence at Broadmoor hospital after being (3) of killing his parents. He is also (4) of killing two others – all four crimes (5) to nights of the full moon. Perhaps because of the enormous amount of anecdotal evidence from people working in the emergency services, some scientific research has been conducted in this (6) – but the conclusions are mixed. In 1972, research at the University of Miami seemed to show that the homicide rate in the city reached a (7) at each full moon. In India, there is much reported violent crime around the time of the full moon – but then the Indians are famously (8) in the full moon and ready to (9) misdemeanours on the moon’s influence. ‘Anecdotally, (10) nurses say patients become more disturbed when the moon is full, and firemen report more (11) of arson. Indeed, scientific research does show a correlation between changed behaviour and the full moon,’ Dr David Nias, (12) in medical psychology at St Bartholomew’s Hospital, London, admitted recently. ‘However, this blip is explained by the small number of people who believe in the ‘full moon effect’ changing their behaviour accordingly – in much the same (13) as believers in astrology modify their behaviour to (14) that associated with their star (15)

On his way to the all-important job interview at St Cake's, Rupert had foolishly stopped to help someone fix an old car, which was barely (8) This meant he arrived late and had oil marks on his shirt and jacket. He went into reception and was led into a waiting room with great (9) There were three other candidates there, who (10) stared in amazement at his clothes. Clearly, the (11) rule was smile at no-one and speak to no-one! The other three were, of course, immaculately dressed and (12) cool, calm and collected. Rupert suddenly felt completely (13) as he imagined a (14) scene with the interviewers barely able to hide their contempt for him as he sat, dirty and sweating, on the chair in front of them! After thirty interminable minutes, Rupert was finally called into the interview room. As he entered, a familiar-looking old man greeted him, 'Ah, Mr Chester, the man with the in-depth (15) of the old Rover 80!' Rupert smiled. Maybe he would get the job after all!

15 April 20—

The Chairman
Town Council
Loxley

Dear Sir,

I am writing to express my concern about the appalling state of the road outside my house. Indeed, the road is in such bad repair that my nextdoor neighbour recently had the misfortune to get the back wheel of her car stuck in one of the enormous potholes outside my gate. She was not only most distressed by the incident but also had to pay for a breakdown truck to pull her car out.

The damage to the road surface is clearly the result of the period of extremely cold weather we had with ice and snow. That, however, was two months ago and still nothing has been done, despite the fact that the road was inspected by a member of the council immediately after the weather improved.

I must, therefore, insist that the council takes steps to have the road repaired as soon as possible. Moreover, I must urge the council to take appropriate action to ensure that situations like this are rectified more promptly in the future.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,

Fred Smith

Dear (1) Mr Jefferies

I was most interested (2) in your advertisement (3) in 'The Independent' and I am writing (4) to obtain further
(5) information about your country cottage holidays.

In particular, I would like (6) to know in which parts of the country your cottages are located as my friends and I are interested (7) in staying as far away from large cities as possible. I would (8) also like to know if it would be possible
(9) to rent a cottage for six people for up to six months and whether pets are allowed as my friends and I have three well-behaved dogs we are planning to take with us.

I should, therefore, be (10) most/extremely/terribly grateful if you (11) would send me full details of your larger, more isolated cottages and any brochures you may have.

Thanking you in advance for your help. I look forward to (12) hearing from you as (13) soon as possible.

Yours (14) sincerely,

Sandy Melville

Report on the new 'Bambo' pushchair

Introduction

The aim of this report is to find out how good the new 'Bambo' pushchair is. It is based on interviews with 150 mothers and fathers in six different cities all over Britain.

Observations and comments

It was found that the majority of people interviewed had a very favourable overall impression of the pushchair. In the words of a Mrs Long of Gloucester, comparing it with her old pushchair, 'The "Bambo" is fantastic – it's so light and manageable' and as a Mr Blair of London said, it must be comfortable as his little boy 'really likes going out in it'. On the whole, most people interviewed agree the 'Bambo' has the following good points: it is light and easy to steer; it is good for carrying shopping on the tray under the baby's seat; it is colourful and attractive to look at; the baby seems comfortable as (s)he has 4 different positions ranging from lying flat to sitting upright; it is easy to transport as it takes up very little room when folded. There were, however, some negative comments, which were: the opening hinge is often stiff making it difficult to unfold; the wheels themselves are rather small, which means the pushchair often gets stuck in holes on uneven or rough ground; the wheel locking mechanism on the back wheels is too small to be operated by using one's foot, which means one has to bend down to lock it by hand.

Recommendations

It is advisable for 'Bocia' to make the following changes to their current model of 'Bambo' pushchair: a) make the opening hinge easier to operate, b) increase the size of the wheels, c) make the wheel locking mechanism large enough to be operated by foot.

Conclusion

To sum up, the current model is already well established as one of the best pushchairs on the market. However, acting on the recommendations stated above, 'Bocia' should be able to improve the product still further and possibly become market leader.

Don't let your child's make-believe turn to tragedy!

Every year, hundreds of kids under the age of 5 are taken to hospital after swallowing something poisonous. Half of these children need to be kept in hospital. Some are accidentally poisoned when they think they are eating or drinking something nice.

MOST OF THESE ACCIDENTS ARE AVOIDABLE!

Safety checks you can make.

- Keep all medicines in a locked cabinet – or store them out of reach of children.
- Fit safety locks on the cupboard where you keep cleaning materials – including dishwasher and washing powder.
- Teach your kids to act safely – not to eat pills or berries and not to drink from a bottle unless a grown-up says it's OK.
- Be aware of plants and berries in your garden – find out which ones are harmful if eaten.

If your child has swallowed something harmful ...

Keep calm and read this panel carefully. If in doubt, phone 01742 313272

- Do not make your child vomit
- Immediately call the Accident and Emergency department of your nearest hospital or take your child there directly
- Take the substance, plant or berries you think your child has swallowed with you

At the hospital the staff will need to know:

- How many tablets or berries your child may have swallowed
- When he/she took them
- Whether your child has any symptoms (eg vomiting)

FUN FOR ALL THE FAMILY AT NEW ADVENTURE PARK
Tamford Towers Adventure Park is set to open its doors to the public this Saturday at noon and, take it from me, it's an opportunity you don't want to miss! The park designers have really pulled out all the stops on this one and come up with what, for my money, is the best adventure park ever! Not only that but also the best value for the money in Dad's pocket with all sorts of special deals and discounts for families on a budget.

Once you're inside, there's something for everyone. There are ten totally new rides ranging from the Water Splash log-ride, which might be a bit tame for some of you teenagers, to the hair-raising 'Screwball' – a type of crazy high-speed spinner – and the awesome 'Abyss', which sends you plummeting to earth at over 100 miles an hour! Totally exhilarating and definitely not one for the faint-hearted!

But there's more yet! There's a small zoo with camels, rhinos and, a must-see for younger kids, penguins! Don't miss their feeding times (11am and 5pm). Then there's 'Uncle Ted's Farmyard', where youngsters can see and even touch chickens, sheep, cuddly lambs and goats. And when they're tired of the animals, there's a large playground with swings, roundabouts and slides. And when Mum and Dad need a break from all the fun, there's a cafe-style restaurant as well as the park's very own pub with beer garden – a popular retreat for fathers in need of refreshment.

And don't forget the souvenir shop (full of marvellous things), refreshment kiosks for ice creams and soft drinks – yes, there are plenty of toilets – and a huge FREE car park! So, don't forget this Saturday – be there or be square!

Ms Maria Hempel

I am writing in support of Ms Maria Hempel's application to become a resident health and fitness trainer at your establishment.

I have known Ms Hempel for approximately ten years in her capacity as aerobics instructor at the 'Avalon Club', the gymnasium which I manage.

First and foremost, I would say Ms Hempel is an excellent teacher of aerobics. References to her in our customer feedback forms have been unanimous in their praise for her as a professional. The only slight criticism has been over her modern hairstyle. However, I am sure she would be prepared to adapt her appearance as seems appropriate should she be selected for the post.

Furthermore, Ms Hempel has continued her professional development through a health and nutrition course, which she has just completed successfully, adding another qualification to her portfolio.

Besides her professional qualities, Ms Hempel is also punctual, in excellent health, has a good sense of humour and excellent interpersonal relations with the other members of the instructors' team.

In short, I would highly recommend Ms Hempel as a prospective member of your staff. Should she get the job, it would be a great loss to us here and it will be difficult to replace her.
